Behavioral Health Clinics (BHC)

In this training, organizations will learn about the BHC model of service for people with dual diagnosis of intellectual and developmental disability and mental health conditions. This flexible and community-integrated service model can be used for case management, community support (individual and group), therapy, crisis management, and other community-based behavioral health services supported by Medicaid billing. The steps to become a Behavioral Health Clinic will be reviewed and a panel of current BHC implementers will be present to share their experience and answer questions.

Thanks to the generosity of The Coleman Foundation, these trainings are free of charge.
